AARE supports diversity and equity in the Association, and recognises the rights of LGBTIQ+ people to live without discrimination, free from prejudice and without the need to deal with open discussion and debate about their lives. As President I want to offer support to the marriage equality fight. Our members will have their own perspectives on issues and I support their rights to these opinions of course, but as President I want to ensure that the Association is open to supporting issues related to equality in Australia and particularly in education contexts such as Universities, schools and early childhood settings.
